

SyberWorks e-Learning Podcasts: Episode #14: Lean-ISD part 2

Waltham, Massachusetts – October 16, 2007

SyberWorks, Inc., a leader in custom e-Learning Solutions and the Learning Management System industry, today announces the next episode in their e-Learning Podcast Series: “Lean ISD, Part (2).”

Dave Boggs, CEO of SyberWorks, states, “This is the second part of a two-part series about Lean ISD with Guy Wallace, a Certified Performance Technologist, and President of EPPIC, Inc. (an Instructional Design and Performance Improvement consulting firm in North Carolina). In episode one, he discussed the concept of Lean ISD and examined the curriculum-architect design that supports it. ISD stands for Instructional Systems Design.”

Boggs continues:

“In episode two, Wallace compares Lean ISD with the ADDIE model of instructional design. This model defines a method for developing instructional programs using Analysis, Design, Development, Implementation, and Evaluation.”

Mary Kay Lofurno, Director of Marketing at SyberWorks, narrates the series.
