

Mortgage Training Solutions LLC Selects the SyberWorks Hosted Learning Management System (LMS) Solution

Waltham, Massachusetts – April 3, 2007

SyberWorks, Inc., a leader in custom e-Learning Solutions and the Learning Management System (LMS) industry, announced today that Mortgage Training Solutions LLC, a leading mortgage training and consulting firm, has selected SyberWorks to host their online mortgage training course library using the SyberWorks Hosted LMS Solution.

Shelron Robinson, co-owner of Mortgage Training Solutions LLC, states, “We specialize in training for mortgage professionals. The states of North Carolina and South Carolina require that mortgage loan officers/originators complete eight hours of continuing-education credits (CEUs) each year, so we needed a system that could house and manage a complete library of courses.”

Robinson continues, “Since most states have mandatory continuing-education requirements and many loan officers/originators are licensed in several states, we knew we needed to provide our training through an e-Learning solution. This is also critical since we plan to expand into other states. In addition, the SyberWorks system will allow our students to meet their educational requirements at times that are most convenient for them. One of our main focuses is ease of access to education, and therefore, a hosted LMS solution seemed appropriate for our business model.”

Robinson adds, “We looked at several hosted learning management systems and selected the SyberWorks Hosted LMS solution. We really liked that the system was complete and had all the functionality we needed, like e-Commerce, registration, tracking, competency management, reporting and a lot more. The state accreditation boards we work with require that we verify that students actually complete their training, with various amounts of time actually spent on specific topics. The SyberWorks Solution prevents students from quickly moving through different parts of the course just to obtain their CEU credit.”

Rebecca Bloom, co-owner of Mortgage Training Solutions LLC states:

“We found the system to be easy for us to use and understand, so we could manage our training practice in-house without having a dedicated resource to administer the system. Creating and loading online courses is a breeze. The system documentation and training materials were excellent. We liked them because they use a lot of screen shots and the instructions are very methodical. The documentation made it easy for us to find answers to our questions. The student's view is also very user friendly.”

Bloom adds, “SyberWorks was just super to work with right from the start. They responded quickly to our request for information. They customized our campus to our specifications. The training we received on the system was thorough and comprehensive, and they continued to respond to our needs quickly after the purchase was made.”

Dave Boggs, CEO of SyberWorks, states, “We are excited to be working with Mortgage Training Solutions LLC. The SyberWorks Hosted LMS Solution offers a comprehensive end-to-end solution for training companies who want to keep their costs and resource expenditures to a minimum so they can focus on their core business activities.”
