

PRIDE Industries Picks the SyberWorks Hosted Learning Management System to Provide Employee Training

Waltham, Massachusetts – December 2, 2008

SyberWorks, a leader in the Learning Management Systems industry, announced today that they signed an agreement with PRIDE Industries Inc. to manage employee training using the SyberWorks Hosted Learning Management System.

Dave Wickersham, Quality and Training Manager for PRIDE Industries states, “PRIDE Industries is one of the nation’s largest employers of people with disabilities. We employ more than 4,000 employees, including some 2,700 people with disabilities while meeting the manufacturing and service needs of companies nationwide and generating more than $140 million in annual revenue.”

“Our business has grown very large and diverse in manufacturing and service industries, supporting many different types of industrial sites and installations all over the country. Quality control and training are paramount to our reputation of excellence in business performance.”

“We needed a system that could efficiently track and manage classroom training on-the-job training and e-Learning across multiple sites. We also wanted to centralize our training records in an online repository, giving senior personnel the ability to access them through a web browser. We will be deploying the system in two steps, beginning with managers and then rolling out training to our disabled employees as well.”

Dave Boggs, CEO of SyberWorks states, “We are thrilled to have a leading manufacturing services provider like PRIDE Industries using our Learning Management System technology to train and support individuals with disabilities. PRIDE Industries has an important mission and we are encouraged that our technology can play a part in providing jobs for the disabled, so that they can be self-sufficient.”
