

Qualipat Selects the SyberWorks Hosted Learning Management System to Provide Patent Drafting Instruction

Waltham, Massachusetts – August 11, 2009

SyberWorks Inc., a leader in the Learning Management Systems industry, announced today that they signed an agreement with Qualipat, Inc. to provide patent drafting instruction.

Joe Root, Founder of Qualipat Inc., says, “Qualipat offers an eight hour e-learning course, “Patent Writing for English as a Second Language” and other online courses that are designed to teach inventors, engineers and foreign legal counsel how to write US patents.

Joe Root states:

“We needed a turnkey solution that we could use as a platform to run our training and consulting practice. We selected the SyberWorks Hosted Learning Management System because it was flexible and offered the all functionality we needed to operate our e-learning business. Online course creation is quick and easy. We are able to publish our courses in a matter of minutes. The SyberWorks team is very responsive and answers our questions promptly as they arise.”

Joe Root continues, “Our current course offering is developed for the Indian technology market but we are planning to expand to meet the need of technology and legal professionals in the pacific rim.”

Dave Boggs, CEO of SyberWorks, states, “SyberWorks Hosted Learning Management System is the perfect solution for training and consulting companies that need a single solution from which to run their training practice.”

About QualiPat

QualiPat was founded in 2008, based on the idea that better drafting could produce better patents. Joseph Root, the founder, parlayed his long experience in both training and patent prosecution to devise a new, rule-based approach to patent drafting. Rather than teach the law, on the law school model, QualiPat seeks to teach patent drafting, a skill that engineers, not just lawyers, can practice with great success. The company has presented training programs to US firms as well as to patent engineers in both the US and India.
